

About the company

Description of the company

Plasticant Mobilo was launched in the late 70s and developed into a family business with a small production facility in the 80s and 90s. At the beginning of this millennium, the company was handed over to the 2nd generation, Jan and Sven Grabosch. In the spirit of change and further development, the two sons began experimenting with bioplastics and plastics made from regranulate (recycled material) back in 2015. The result was the particularly sustainable and environmentally friendly educational toy of the new ECO series in 2020 (see link).

Sustainability profile

By manufacturing in Germany, Plasticant Mobilo GmbH takes responsibility for our living environment and has all the tools for sustainable business in its own hands. Production in Germany means short distances and low CO2 emissions. Great importance is attached to proximity when selecting suppliers.

At Plasticant Mobilo GmbH, sustainability begins with the selection of materials, determines all stages of production and extends from the packaging to the dispatch of the educational toys to customers all over the world. After that, the idea of sustainability continues: the construction toy itself lasts longer than average and is usually passed on from one generation to the next. And if one day the toy has completely fulfilled its mission, it can be 100% recycled.

At the production site in Sulzburg, the company's own photovoltaic system generates around 20% of the electricity required each year. Additional energy is sourced exclusively as green electricity from EWS Schönaue (see link) from 100% climate-friendly and renewable energy sources. A heat recovery system heats the production facility.

Plasticant Mobilo GmbH stands for long-term, efficient and sustainable management in line with the company's own motto:

High-quality, environmentally friendly and respectful towards all people.
